The power of personalisation

Personalising your premium brand garment is a way of aligning your unique logo with leading outdoorwear brands to further awareness of who you are and what you stand for in the marketplace.

Dual-branded corporate gifts, promotional merchandise and corporatewear strengthen your brand and make it more recognisable, creating more interest in the products and services you offer.

We offer the complete embroidery and print service alongside supply of clothing, equipment and accessories from our premium brand partners.

Our personalisation team of highly skilled decorators have over 10 years' experience of personalising high-end technical garments, understanding the best form of decoration for the fabric technology of each item.

We use either embroidery, vinyl print or screen print processes, all depending on the garment's fabric technology. All products shown in this catalogue can be personalised. Artwork is required in JPEG or EPS format.

Call us to see how our team of expert decorators can personalise your high-end garments and get your brand out there!

It's that feeling we all love. Being at home in the outdoors. Rain, icy winds, maybe even some sunshine... it really doesn't matter. The outdoors brings us life. This is the feeling behind Berghaus. From the early days above the shop in the North East of England we've come a long way. We've over 50 years' experience creating outdoor gear that is built to last and loved across the world. We know great kit is the difference between enjoying the outdoors and truly loving it.

 Rab[®]

THE MOUNTAIN PEOPLE

Rab Carrington built his company on two things: A deep understanding of what climbers and mountaineers need, and a commitment to practical gear that works. It's this down to earth, honest approach that still informs the design and testing process linking us firmly to that modest beginning in 1980's Sheffield. Those same qualities of innovation, integrity and function have endured, remaining at the heart of the Rab® brand today.

HH[®]
HELLY HANSEN

From our home in Norway, Helly Hansen has been making professional grade gear to help people stay and feel alive for almost 140 years. It all started in 1877 when sea captain Helly Juell Hansen found a better way to stay protected from the harsh Norwegian elements. Soon thereafter, Captain Hansen and his wife Margrethe launched a business producing waterproof oilskin jackets, trousers, sou'westers and tarpaulins made from coarse linen soaked in linseed oil – and the legend was born!

Montane has become synonymous with lightweight and breathable clothing and equipment. We were the first to push the limits of single layer mountain clothing and then, later realising the true value of windproof clothing, created the first super packable, windproof and breathable windshirt. Probably the most innovative piece of windproof garment designed after Fridtjof Nansen, renowned Norwegian explorer, realised that windproofing was the secret to moving quickly and comfortably in the mountains, whilst planning the first crossing of Greenland.

Icebreaker started with a chance meeting on a New Zealand merino station, where our founder Jeremy Moon first encountered merino and its natural and miraculous qualities. Relatively unknown at the time, but Jeremy knew instantly that merino would be the perfect natural alternative to synthetic outdoor clothing.

Since then, icebreaker has grown into a world-class sustainably-driven apparel company, working with what nature provides, with a belief that nature is the antidote humans need to balance faster, busier lives in an ever-changing world.

Is it really that long ago that we were making duffels and packs for the Pentagon?

It seems just like yesterday. Maybe that's because our military roots still run strong through everything we do. Because even though we've come a long way when it comes to design, we still like to build our bags and luggage to the same, life-saving standards as we did over 60 years ago.
